

A Little Bit About Me

I am excited to build meaningful relationships with children and families and to create a positive, fun and loving classroom environment for everyone.

A Few of My Favorite Things

Season | Fall

Food | Colombian Food

Book | "Many Lives"

Place | The Beach

Meet Dya

Hi! I am Dya

I grew up in Colombia and have been living in Denver for several years. One of the things I love most about Colorado is its beautiful nature, the mountains, and getting to experience all four seasons throughout the year.

I have a strong passion for working with children and have spent several years in Early Childhood Education. Even though I do not have children of my own, I truly enjoy helping little ones learn, grow, and build confidence every day. My favorite part about teaching is watching children discover new things, express their creativity, and develop important social and emotional skills.

I would describe my teaching style as caring, patient, creative, and understanding. I believe children learn best in an environment where they feel safe, supported, and encouraged to explore the world around them through play and meaningful experiences.

Outside of work, I enjoy playing tennis, spending time with my dog, Cosmos, listening to music, and being outdoors. I also enjoy learning new things and continuing to grow both personally and professionally. One of my favorite books is Many Lives, Many Masters because it inspires me to reflect on life, personal growth, and human experiences.

Sincerely,

Ms. Dya

